

Local authorities' perspectives on working with primary care

VCSE health & wellbeing alliance

Good Things

Partnership working to promote digital inclusion for health

Good Things Foundation, with the support of NHS England's Primary Care and Community Transformation team, has just published our latest report as part of our work with the VCSE health and Wellbeing Alliance: Partnership working to promote digital inclusion for health: local authorities' perspectives on working with primary care

Link to the Report

About the report

The report explores local authorities' experiences of engaging and working with health partners in primary care to promote digital inclusion for health

- The research was conducted on behalf of the Voluntary, Community and Social Enterprise \(VCSE\) Health and Wellbeing Alliance, a partnership between voluntary sector representatives and the health and care system
- The findings are based on research conducted by Good Things Foundation, in partnership with NHS England's Primary Care and Community Transformation and Improvement team and the Local Government Association \(LGA\) Digital Inclusion Network.
- This is the first stage of the research, we will be adding to the findings in early 2026.

The work continues

We're inviting you to get involved in further research to share your experience. We will be further exploring:

1. The barriers and enablers for those whose relationships with primary care are yet to be established and
2. The Leadership approaches that facilitate progress on partnership working

To get involved

Jen Harrison at

jen@connectedbychange.co.uk

Good Things